The Corner House cannot take responsibility for any loss or damage to ceramic or glass work, it is entirely at the owners risk. Glaze firing will be agreed at the time of payment. The Corner House cannot accept responsibility for the results of glaze firing - due to the imprecise nature of chemistry of the glazes in their unfired state and the changes they undergo during firing. Colours and finishing may vary from piece to piece and from firing to firing. It is the responsibility of the client/potter to select appropriate glazes and request appropriate firings for their work. All items to be fired are handled by experienced and qualified staff.
